

formal
informal quick equipment
eLearning team
support software

audio feedback
personalised
Blackboard
tools
teaching style
group
one to one
'any time' access

focus on... Audio Feedback

Top Ten Hints and Tips

- 1 Explain to students what audio feedback is and how it can benefit them
- 2 Ensure you know what equipment and support is available from your eLearning team
- 3 Use the best tools and software to suit you and your teaching style
- 4 Use it to give formal and informal feedback
- 5 Use it for one-to-one and group feedback
- 6 Audio feedback is effective with distance learners who are not on campus
- 7 It allows personalised feedback, developing a relationship between staff and student
- 8 Recording audio feedback can be quick and easily uploaded to Blackboard
- 9 Make recordings available through Blackboard - it's secure, with 'any time' access
- 10 Consider audio to feed forward - preparing students for next week