Attachment 1: Introduction to BNU

Established in 1902, after the development for over a century, Beijing Normal University has become a comprehensive and research-intensive university with its main characteristics of basic disciplines in sciences and humanities, teacher education and educational science. It ranks the 6th among the universities of China, and has also been listed in the country's construction plan of "World-Class Universities and First-Class Disciplines".

BNU main campus, located in the urban area, has 23,800 full-time students, including 9,200 undergraduates, 12,800 graduates and 1,800 long-term international students. The campus has 1 faculty (Faculty of Education), 26 schools and colleges, 2 departments and 37 research institutes (centers). Each year, over 1000 BNU students study abroad on exchange programs, internship programs, collaborative programs and degree programs; above 900 international professors and scholars are invited to lecture and research at the University; and over 1000 BNU faculty members go abroad for international conference and cooperative research. The University has around 1800 long-term international students from over 100 countries and regions, the scale of which ranks among top in Chinese universities.

BNU always attaches importance to international exchange and cooperation. At present, the university has established cooperative ties with about 300 universities and international organizations from more than 30 countries and regions, conducted student exchange program with over 50 universities. BNU has jointly established 8 Confucius Institutes with partner universities in Europe and North America, including the University of Manchester (UK), San Francisco State University (US), the University of Oklahoma (US), Dawson University (Canada), Aalborg University (Denmark), University of Macerata (Italy), the College of William and Mary (US) and Tufts University (US).
