

Communities England, CABE, and RICS, will be published in the next few months.

Many of the outcomes, and particularly those on greenspace and human comfort, are already influencing the TCPA's policy-thinking and future programme of projects and events. The research has also contributed to our input into government consultations at national level and into regional planning processes. This will continue as we digest the final outcomes and recommendations.

The enclosed report goes into detail about the nature of stakeholders' engagement in different aspects of the research. There is a general agreement amongst those involved of the value of this project's work, but also of the value of stakeholder led research in delivering practical and robust outcomes. We would recommend this process to others and will certainly become involved in similar programmes again.

I wish you well in finalising the report and very much look forward to working with you in this way again.

Yours sincerely

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'R. Shaw', with a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.

Robert Shaw
Director (Policy & Projects)